BRIDGE Summer Camp

APCC Protocol for Delegation Health Management and Communication

This document outlines APCC's procedures for managing health-related situations of delegation members during the BRIDGE Summer Camp, including communication between the APCC Office and Liaison Offices.

1. Health Management During the Stay at Marine House

1.1 Initial Response to Illness

- When a delegation member feels unwell, APCC Medical staff at Marine House will conduct an initial health assessment.
- In the case of a JA, Chaperon will be informed immediately.
- APCC medical staff serve as an initial response team and do not prescribe medication. If the participant has brought their own medication, it may be administered within that scope under supervision. If a condition is suspected that requires prescription medication or further medical treatment, the participant will be referred to a medical institution.

1.2 Medical Treatment Outside Marine House

- If further medical attention is required, JA or Chaperon will be taken to a clinic or hospital.
- APCC Coordinator and APCC medical staff will accompany the individual.
- In the case of a JA, Chaperon must also accompany the JA.

1.3 Diagnosed with infectious diseases like influenza or COVID-19, or Hospitalization

- For health and safety reasons, any individual diagnosed with infectious diseases like influenza or COVID-19 is not permitted to remain at Marine House to prevent the spread of infectious diseases among participants. APCC will arrange hotel accommodation for isolation when required.
- In cases involving a JA, Chaperon must stay with the JA during hotel isolation or hospitalization.

1.4 Common or Minor Illnesses

Examples include, but are not limited to: fever, stomachache, headache, allergies, nausea, common cold, insect bites.

- The affected JA or Chaperon may take their own medication, if available, under the supervision of Marine House medical staff, and rest at Marine House.

2. Health Management During the Homestay Period

2.1 Initial Response to Illness

- When a delegation member feels unwell during homestay, host family will take the affected JA or Chaperon to a nearby clinic or hospital. In the case of a JA's illness, the Chaperon will also be informed.
- Host family will report the medical outcome to APCC.

2.2 Diagnosed with infectious diseases like influenza or COVID-19, Hospitalization, or Hotel Isolation

- If infectious diseases like influenza or COVID-19 is detected or if hospitalization or isolation is required, APCC will arrange hotel accommodation if isolation is necessary.
- In the case of a JA, Chaperon must stay with the JA during hospitalization or hotel isolation.

Communication with APCC Liaison Office

1. APCC will notify the relevant Liaison Office in the following cases:

- Diagnosis of infectious disease like influenza, COVID-19, or any other major medical condition, including bone fractures
- Hospitalization
- Hotel isolation

2. APCC will not notify the Liaison Office in cases involving common or minor illnesses.
